Live Surgeries and streaming in large format

Participants will be divided in small groups to enter the OR and witness surgeries first-hand.

Additionally, the transmission of surgeries in large format will allow the rest of attendees to observe the surgery as if they were in the front row of the operating room.

Together with the Image Department of the Teknon Medical Center, we have designed a set-up that allows us to cover each movement of the surgeon with a privileged viewpoint, emitting an enlarged, high-quality image so that attendees can observe every detail, in a much more detailed way than if they were present in the operating room.
